We bake our pizza after many hours of fermentation, rest and proofing, a process that begins 2 days before your first bite; time is the real ingredient in this phase. Our dough is the result of an ongoing research, a never-ending journey that begins with grains.

We love to take care of every single detail of your pizza, without compromise, because every pizza that we carefully bake in our yellow dome has a story to tell and we want you to read it through.

Our ingredients are mostly fresh and we try to embrace a bridge between southern Italy and our home here, the Netherlands. We believe in local producers as well as we love the rarity of certain products you can only find on volcanic soil.

Welcome to the metropolis of a new pizza era.
